

I am writing in regards to the Low Power FM (LPFM) broadcasting. I currently listen to K-Love radio in Phoenix Arizona as my primary radio station for myself and my family and am a monthly financial supporter for KLOVE. I would be greatly affected if the FCC replaced my radio station by an LPFM broadcaster. I choose not to participate in secular stations due to the poor influences it has in its music and advertisement. I am offended by the violence, sexual implications, and language that is broadcasted. I know that KLOVE and other stations such as KFLR offer uplifting music that is safe for the whole family and all who listen. It is refreshing not to have to worry if I should have to change the station due to connotations. Please reconsider this issue on LPFM broadcasting. Even with the current broadcasting that KLOVE is on, it can be difficult to pick up in certain areas around town. It is also rewarding to have KLOVE available to me throughout the United States where ever I may be traveling.

Sincerely,
Tamra Wolfer
